

Track: Regional and Religious Studies

Introduction

This track welcomes both theoretical and applied research papers exploring topics pertinent to concepts related to Regional and Religious Studies. Its overarching objective is to establish a dedicated platform for the dissemination and discussion of such research, thereby showcasing the extensive efforts to enhance the efficiency and effectiveness of this research domain. In alignment with this year's conference theme, submissions that examine opportunities to enhance decision-making for a diverse set of stakeholders are especially encouraged.